Dear Herb:

Re: Chris Parish

It has been my pleasure to work with Chris over the past year and half as he tackled the job of building a new playroom at Ronald McDonald House. During that time, I have come to know Chris not only a very professional builder/renovator, but also as a friend.

Throughout the planning stages, Chris was always there with suggestions and ways to improve upon the ideas that we at the House had. As with many construction jobs, "surprises" always happen and with this job there were surprises after surprises. At no time did Chris ever react in anything but a positive and professional manner. He was always there to answer our questions, and solve the problem and always with good humour. Chris and his crew were ever mindful of the fact that we had sick children living at Ronald McDonald House and every attempt was made so as not to disrupt everyday life of our families at the House.

I cannot think of a better person in the industry to be recognized as one of the top renovators in the field. His attention to detail, his willingness to help in anyway was always evident. On many occasions, I saw Chris at the House "worrying" over solving a construction issue. He is truly at the top of his game and meets every challenge head on with a view to the perfect solution. This entire project would not have been possible without the enthusiasm and generosity show to us by Lagois Drafting and Construction, who donated so much time and material to make the playhouse become a reality, and through whom Chris managed the job. Together they are an unbeatable team.

We all knew that with Chris and the team from Lagois Drafting and Construction on the job, we were in good hands and the job would be done right.

Yours very truly,

Carol
